UNAIDED WIDOWS' HOME

At the request of Rai Bahadur A Narsim Iyengar the benevolent founder of the Home I had the pleasure of inspecting the classes and the establishment The strength and attendance have been more than doubled during the year past and a half Out of 47 pupils on rolls 19 are boarders and 27 are day-Scholars in receipt of monthly stipends In the special English Standard corresponding to departmental III Form there were 4 pupils of whom 3 were widows All these have passed the Vernacular Lower Secondary examination and one is a certificated teacher of the middle grade Two students answered intelligently in English Y Narasimhaiya, class teacher, a graduate in Mathematics has taken considerable pains in coaching up the pupil The vernacular classes from the V down to the Lower Primary were under equally competent teachers Srimati S Pangarra, the energetic and enthusiastic manager of the Home has taught vernacular to the highest standard For the Lower Secondary examination of 1909, four candidates were sent up, and of them three were successful The results are very creditable to the manager and the teaching staff In the lower standards the course of studies needs some improvement Map drawing was good in the middle stages Progress was fair in the vernacular and arithmetic in all the classes A few more maps and hygiene charts were wanted badly I am glad to note that Sanskrit and teaching in religion and morals form an important feature of studies adopted in the Home The Industrial Section included rattan work, sewing, knitting, embroidery, and bead-work Drawing and painting may be introduced in course of time Picture dressing and matting were a specialty of the Home For excellence of manual work the Home has won a silver medal and certificates of merit from the recent Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition in Mysore Under the careful supervision of the Manager, the arrangement made for boarding and lodging of the inmates seemed to be satisfactory The garden in the premises was kept in good condition The monthly receipts of the Home are Rs 100/- from H H the Maharaja, Rs 176/- from Devaraj Bahadur Charity Fund, and Rs 255/- from Rai Bahadur A Narasim Iyengar The expenditure on Home and school establishments amounts to Rs 528/- a month The accomodation provided by the Government will do for the present The Home has met a long and keenly felt want, and the good work already done in it is considerable in every respect To conclude, Rai Bahadur A Narasim Iyengar's request for a salary grant to the Institution deserves a sympathetic consideration at the hands of the Government
